

ROAD TRANSPORT POLICY

The management and employees of Portland (Pty) Ltd are mutually committed to promote a safe healthy and environmentally friendly working environment for all persons who work for or are affected by our Road transport vehicle, which complies with current Road Transport legislation.

The company will:

1. Encourage and facilitate all Road transport drivers to develop a culture of health, safety and environmental awareness in the workplace and at home.
2. Comply with all relevant and future Road Transport legislation and take any additional measures considered necessary.
3. Train all Road Transport drivers to perform their tasks in accordance with the established Road Transport Health, Safety and Environmental procedures.
4. Identify the impact from existing and future Road Transport operations by means of risk assessment and where reasonably practicable strive to reduce or eliminate these risks or any foreseeable risks which have the potential to cause personal injury, illness, fires, security losses, damage to assets and the environment with resulting disruption to processes.
5. Measure by means of a formal evaluation system the extent to which the drivers of our Road Transport vehicles adhere to the requirements of the road Transport system and how these targets have been achieved.
6. Continually review the Company's road Transport performance against international standards and guidelines.

Nico Heyns
Managing Director
Portland Group